

30 words that scream "AI wrote this."

People spot AI writing in one line now. These are the words and habits that give it away, plus the prompt that makes Claude, ChatGPT or Gemini write like you instead.

1 The 30 words (cut or replace them)

- delve
- game-changer
- unlock
- elevate
- seamless
- leverage
- robust
- dive-in
- navigate
- landscape
- realm
- tapestry
- testament
- pivotal
- crucial
- foster
- empower
- streamline
- cutting-edge
- transformative
- embark
- journey
- in today's world
- it's important to note
- let's dive in
- I hope this helps
- rest assured
- furthermore
- moreover
- ever-evolving

2 The habits (worse than the words)

- Long dashes everywhere
- Lists of exactly three adjectives ("fast, simple, and powerful")
- "It's not just X, it's Y"
- Ending with a question nobody asked
- Every paragraph the same length

3 Make it write like YOU

Paste 3-5 things you actually wrote: texts, captions, emails. Real ones, typos and all.

Here are 5 things I wrote myself: [paste]. Study my sentence length, my words and how I start and end. Now rewrite this post so it sounds like me, not like AI: [paste post]. Use none of these words: delve, unlock, elevate, seamless, game-changer. No long dashes.

4 The final check

COPY THIS

Read this as someone who hates AI-written posts. Underline anything that sounds generated. Then fix only those parts.

The goal isn't to hide that you use AI. It's to sound like a person people want to follow.

ok but why does nobody talk about this.
