

After you apply: replies, prep, the offer

The setup from the video. Job Hunt HQ is a free, open-source job search system that runs inside Claude Code. Once you start applying, it keeps the tracker up to date, builds an interview prep pack when someone says yes, and learns from your clicks so your daily shortlist keeps getting better.

Your pipeline, streaks and activity (sample data: a fictional person, Alex Sample).

What you need:

- Claude Code (desktop app or terminal).
- Python 3.9+. On Windows use the python.org installer.
- Microsoft Word or the free LibreOffice (for PDF documents).
- Optional: Claude's Gmail connector, so it spots replies by itself.

1 Install it in one message

PASTE INTO CLAUDE CODE

Install Job Hunt HQ from <https://github.com/Prabhjot2s/job-hunt-hq> and follow its INSTALL.md

Claude downloads it, runs the installer and checks everything works. Then start a new chat and say set up Job Hunt HQ (15 to 25 minutes, once).

OR BY HAND

```
git clone https://github.com/Prabhjot2s/job-hunt-hq.git cd job-hunt-hq
python install.py
```

2 "Did anyone reply?"

Tell Claude what happened, in plain words. The tracker (one Excel workbook) and your pipeline update.

Acme rejected me
Fabrikam wants an interview Thursday

With the Gmail connector on, it notices rejections and interview invites in your inbox and updates the tracker for you. It reads; it never sends emails.

3 Got an interview? Prep pack.

Prep me for my interview with Fabrikam

- Their likely questions for that interview stage.
- Your stories: real examples from your experience, matched to each question (STAR format).
- Honest answers for your gaps, like a tool you've never used, said politely and truthfully.
- Research on the company, and good questions for you to ask.

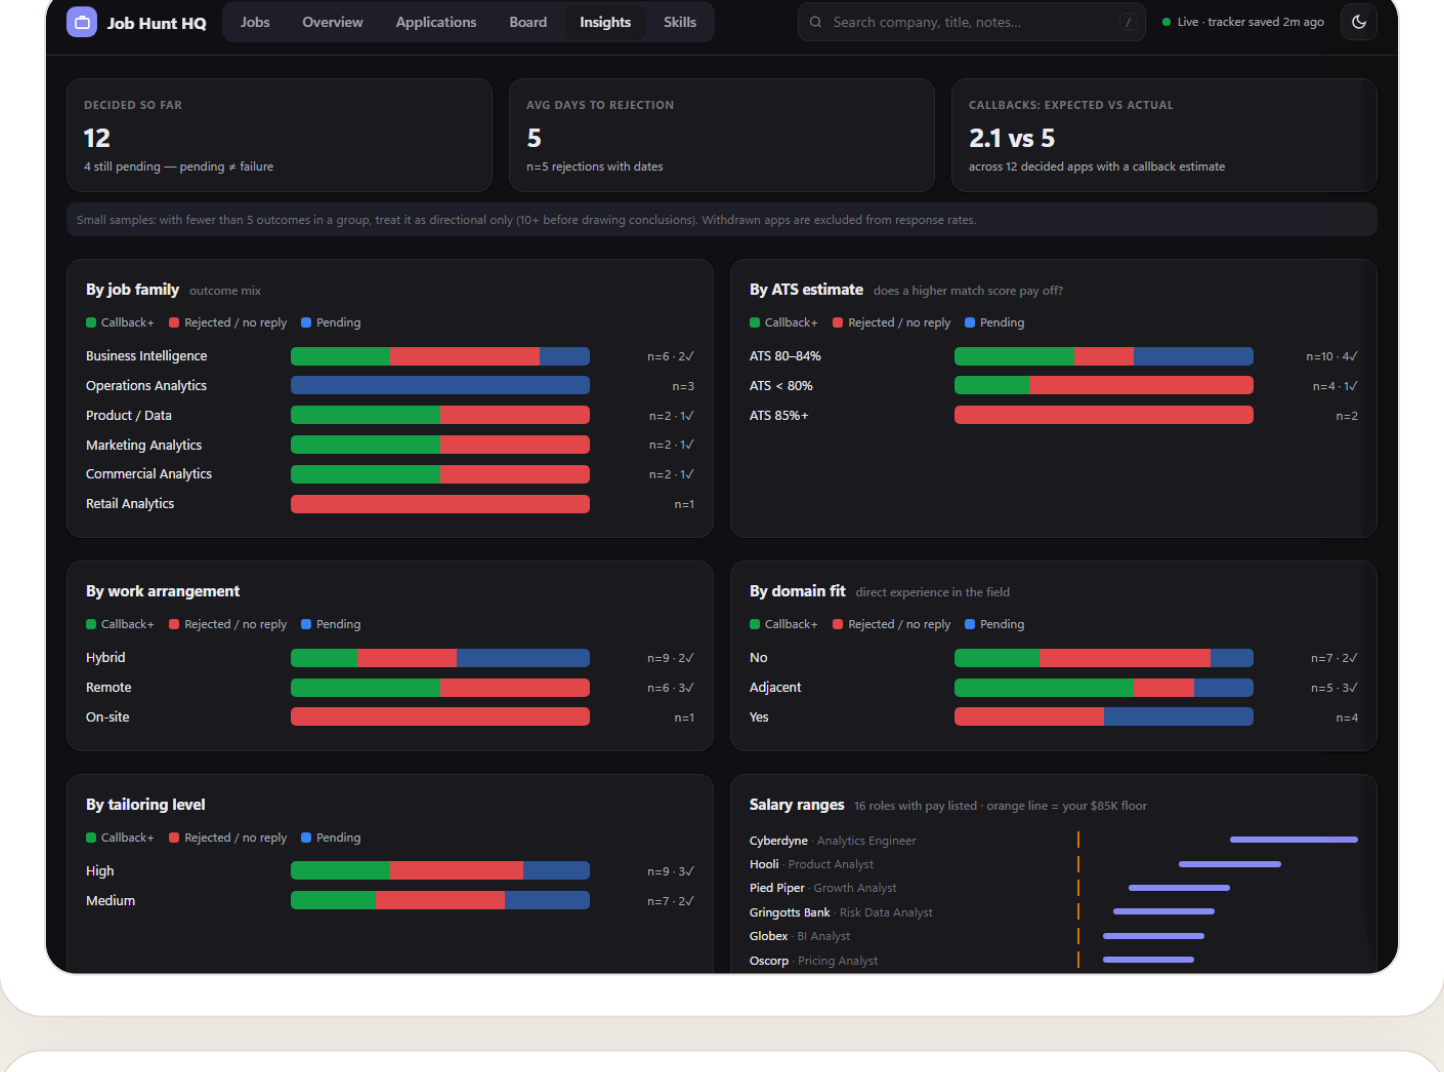

Want practice? Ask for a mock interview.

4 It learns from your clicks

On the dashboard every job gets Applied, Skip (with a one-click reason like "too senior" or "low pay") or More like this. Every Sunday Claude reads your week and writes rules for the daily search, each with its evidence. For example:

6 of 9 skips were "too senior" on roles asking 4+ years: score those lower

The summary shows on the dashboard as "What the radar learned". Bigger changes (new companies, a different pay floor) wait for your OK.

5 Got the job? Tell it.

I got the offer from Fabrikam

The tracker records the offer next to the estimate it made when you applied, so you can see what actually worked. Ask "What's working?" any time for an analysis of your applications and outcomes.

! Your data stays yours

- Everything lives in a folder you choose on your own computer.
- The dashboard only runs on your own machine (127.0.0.1).
- It never applies, submits forms or sends emails for you.

Job Hunt HQ is free and open source: github.com/Prabhjot2s/job-hunt-hq

More like this, every week
Follow @thebusinessdart for the next free guide.